

RBT

Results Based Training (RBT) is holding an enchanting evening showcasing items and services for auction in support of charitable organization YGAP, on Saturday 23 July at the stunning Crown Palladium Melbourne.

The RBT Gala Ball raises money and draws awareness to the accomplished entrepreneurs who dedicate their endeavors to some of the worlds most disadvantaged communities, where poverty, hunger, lack of education and economic exploitation deprive opportunity to accomplish their hopes and dreams.

Philanthropic foundation If Not Now Then When (INTW) operated by RBT has backed an astonishing 212 change-makers over the course of eight years, instilling the lives of more than 140,000 disadvantaged people both globally and locally with a chance to accomplish their goals and be the best they can be.

A goal they wish to further enhance with their passionate vision to change the lives of 10 million children in the next 10 years and continue to do so into the future, providing hope and opportunity to those that would not otherwise receive it.

By identifying and forming partnerships with community organizations, RBT will strengthen the capacity for self-help organizations around the globe and enhance economic opportunity, INTW forms the building blocks for entrepreneurs through development programs emphasizing mutual respect and holistic learning.

Patrick O'Callahan, the development manager for YGAP characterizes the objective of RBT's vision by saying that the organization, "Believes in a world without poverty, where everyone receives quality education and can earn a fair wage, live in a good home with running water and electricity, and be free from violence and preventable disease."

Items will be displayed within the Crown Casino leading up to the event and be featured at the live auction, while other items will be featured in a silent online auction aiming to reach a global audience and achieve the funds desirable to make a difference.

Members of the public can help relieve poverty and suffering by contributing to the cause by visiting the If Not Now Then When website and donating online, and can also register for online bidding.

The inspiring philanthropic event will delight with exquisite food and wine, captivating the audience with enticing music and entertainment.

Attending the event will do no other than enlighten and inspire, so treat yourself to something captivating and peruse the options available for the night, including a single ticket at $175.00, a table of ten for $1,500 and a VIP premium table at $2,200.
